

Grievance Procedures

Department of Integrative Biology

If a student in the Department of Integrative Biology feels treated unfairly or has a concern or complaint, the department follows the grievance procedures outlined by the Graduate School <http://grad.wisc.edu/acadpolicy/> under Grievances and Appeals.

Students' concerns about unfair treatment are best handled directly with the person responsible for the objectionable action. If a student is uncomfortable making direct contact with the individual(s) involved, he/she should contact the advisor or the person in charge of the unit where the action occurred (program or department chair, section chair, lab manager, etc.).

For concerns related to mentor-mentee relations, degree progress, or programmatic requirements, contact the Director of Graduate Studies, Lauren Ritters; lvriters@wisc.edu; 608-262-6506.

Links to helpful administrative offices can also be found at the link above.